Rector's notes – November 2020

News in the benefice

Since last month the big news in the benefice is that Graham our curate is off to pastures new – to Camborne in fact – at the end of November. Curates by definition are temporary fixtures, but Graham is leaving us before even he imagined he would. The Camborne job is so right for him, and I for one am really delighted that the diocese has bent the rules to enable him to be start there soon. Because his curacy can't finish till next summer, his licensing won't be till then, so who knows, maybe it will be possible to celebrate that service in person with him in Camborne.

*A prayer for church growth
God of Mission, who alone brings growth to your church; send your Holy Spirit to give vision to our planning, wisdom to our actions, and power to our witness.
Help our churches grow in numbers, in spiritual commitment to you, and in service to our local community; through Jesus Christ
our Lord. Amen.*

Deb has a small change in her working practice, namely that she is now doing 0.8 FTE, instead of full time. This is partly to enable her to spend more time with her growing numbers of grandchildren, and it will also mean the amount our benefice has to contribute towards the cost of ministry will reduce a bit.

Service patterns

Team Council met recently and decided to stick with the current pattern of Sunday morning worship at 10.30am on alternate Sundays in each of our churches for the next two months, continuing with an online Zoom service each week at the same time. Arrangements for Remembrance will be affected by this of course, as parades and large gatherings are not permitted, so do check the calendar in this magazine to find out what's on. Naturally our Christmas services will also be affected - look out for those details in the next month's magazine.

Getting through these tough next months

The ongoing pandemic restrictions are hard for all of us to bear, but the diocese has recently passed on some useful principles to help us get through the winter:

1. Six months is the new horizon, so focus on Easter, and enjoy the great themes of the church year as we encounter them.
2. Remember to rest properly.
3. Rediscover the joy of journeying in fellowship with Christian friends. Watch out for our Advent small group courses.
4. Celebrate generosity – if your income is stable how about giving something extra to God?
5. Think about some people who know who you might specifically pray for, that they too might discover the joy of knowing God in Jesus.

With my prayers & best wishes

Caspar Bush (Team Rector)

Revd Graham writes about “Holy Habits”

Recently, Bishop Philip and Bishop Hugh sent a letter to clergy and leaders in the diocese, urging us to learn from St Paul in how to live well in uncertain times. The apostle wrote to the Philippian church from a prison cell, and yet with all the constraints on his freedom and unable as he was to be with those he loved, Paul had learned to live well in extremely demanding circumstances. As our bishops write, we can learn from this by considering some new priorities in our own lives in this time.

“Uncertainty is all around us at the moment and, it’s increasingly clear, will be with us for some time. We are all finding our own way to deal with this demanding situation, but as Paul learnt, when things are uncertain and so much is unclear and unreliable, it is good to go back to basics and to focus on what matters most.”

These “Holy Habits” are not rules but tools or disciplines to help shaping ways of living well when so much that we had learnt to rely on has gone.

1. PRAY (every day in whichever way works for you)
2. BE DISCIPLINED IN TAKING TIME OFF
3. DECIDE WHAT IS MOST IMPORTANT FOR THE NEXT TWO WEEKS (and focus on that)
4. DON’T DO IT ALONE (Find others to talk, pray and struggle with)

Although these were written with the clergy and leaders of the diocese in mind, I think these Four Holy Habits are relevant for everyone, inviting us back to the roots of our own walk with God and to find strength in holding on to God in these very changing times. How might you make these habits your own in this season?

God bless you all

Graham

CHURCH VESTMENTS PART TWO

Following last month's article, it was pointed out to me that I had missed out several items of liturgical clothing, so here are some more:

THE SURPLICE is a wide sleeved version of the alb and was originally worn by junior clergy and outside of the Eucharist. It is often worn with a cassock at morning and evening prayer.

PREACHING BANDS are worn inside the neck line of a cassock. They represent the old and new testaments under whose authority the preacher speaks.

THE PREACHING SCARF is usually a long piece of black or blue fabric worn round the neck. It was originally called a tippet and is a sign of authority on which may be fastened coats of arms, military insignia and orders.

A CINCTURE BELT is usually worn by incumbent priests as a sign of their parochial authority. They are usually black, but can have coloured piping to denote a specific ecclesiastical position eg. red for a canon, pink for a bishop's chaplain.

THE BIRETTA is a square hat with three or four peaks and possibly a pom pom. It was originally an academic hat but from 1311 became used by clergy to denote knowledge and authority. Although usually black, it may be red or purple depending on the position of the wearer.

WHY 39 BUTTONS ON A CASSOCK the cassock may have pleats usually depending on the choice of the wearer. Three or five pleats are usual. Cassocks can be fastened with a button or a belt, but some have buttons from head to foot. These 39 buttons represent the 39 Articles of Religion found in the Prayer Book, and also the tradition was hit 39 times on Good Friday; to hit someone 40 times was to kill them.

THE COTTA is simply a surplice, which overtime has been shortened, decorated and which may have lace inserts.

THE DALMATIC is the square over garment worn by Deacons. It represents an apron reminding us of the first seven deacons whose purpose was to feed the hungry and to distribute charity to the poor.

THE TUNICLE is another square vestment worn by the sub-deacon, a lay order and often found in a High Mass, which would have Priest, Deacon and Sub-Deacon.

THE MITRE is worn only by a bishop and comes from the ancient word MITRA, meaning crown. It is in the shape of a flame reminding us of the first apostles and the flames of Pentecost which gave them the power to proclaim the Gospel. It has two lappets, two pieces of fabric at the back which denote the old and new testaments under the authority of which the bishop speaks and guides the people.

Maybe, next time you are in church you will look at the vestments. See the colours, the decorative symbols and remember that each vestment represents tradition, celebration and God's love for the world.

A message from David and Margaret Paterson

Saint John the Baptist Church has not reopened yet although one or two churches in the area have begun limited services with people present. There is a massive upsurge in Covid cases in Montreal again and I foresee that a new lockdown will be on the horizon - soon! Online services continue but, for most individuals, these "broadcasts" are a poor substitute for attending church in person and I can already see a drop-off in parishioners "bothering to tune in" - at least in the case of StJtheB.

Best regards David

ST ANDREW REDRUTH

Dr Arthur Edward Permewan – St Andrew's

Look up at the wall of the north aisle in St Andrew's, just east of the porch, and you will see a brass memorial plate dedicated to Arthur Edward Permewan, M.D. who died in March 1917. Thanks to our dedicated team of cleaners, the plate shines as brightly as new. There is no-one alive today who would remember Dr Permewan, so it is left to us at St Andrew's Redruth to remember.

Who was Arthur Edward Permewan and why this memorial?

Born in Redruth to surgeon John Permewan, Arthur Edward, known as Edward, started life in a comfortable home in Chapel Terrace. John Permewan, second son of a farming family, qualified in medicine at Edinburgh University 1854. After marriage to Jane Thomas in Redruth he settled in Chapel Terrace, building a strong practice in the town.

However, the security of this family was publicly and humiliatingly shattered in 1865. The young John Permewan was living a somewhat ostentatious life. A board member of several local mines, suspicion of fraud grew and investigations culminated in a guilty verdict at the Central Criminal Court, the Old Bailey, in 1866, with a sentence of seven years penal servitude..

Jane Permewan was left with the disgrace, loss of her home and four young children. She returned to her native St Just, worked as a schoolmistress and focussed on her family.

On his release in 1873 John Permewan returned to Redruth with his family and resumed his medical practice. Although it was illegal for a felon to practice under the English system, John Permewan had qualified in Edinburgh, so a loophole allowed him to continue working in England.

Both sons studied medicine at University College, London. Edward Permewan won the silver medal for physiology in 1877/8, and was awarded first class in his finals. He joined his father's surgery and later moved to 'Belmont', Green Lane.

Dr A.E.Permewan was known for his interest in miners' health and proud of the decreasing deaths from lung disease. In 1890 he was elected the District Medical Officer (at £100 a year!). Energetic and active in local affairs, he became a J.P., Chairman of the Urban Authority, president of the Redruth Literary Institution and prominent in the Church of England. His influence resulted in improvements in sanitary conditions. In personality he was described as sympathetic and kindly, unselfish and zealous in his profession, a true friend to the Cornish miner and a wise counsellor. His sudden death from a stroke in the spring of 1917 was a great loss.

Overcoming dishonour and financial loss, to return and build the respect, affection and gratitude of the townspeople exemplifies remarkable fortitude. Jane Permewan raised her family in Christian principle and action. On the day of her funeral all the shops in town closed as a mark of respect. Dr. Edward Permewan's successful life of service is a tribute to this great example of love and forgiveness.

Many thanks to everyone who was able to be part of the Event, which raised £150 for SPRA, a charity with fundraising outlets in Devon, dedicated to protecting and re-homing destitute animals. Please remember this charity in your prayers. The next First Sunday Evening Event will be held on 1st November at 6.00 pm., the Festival of All Saints, at St. Andrew's Pencoys, featuring the SAINTS. Everyone will be very welcome, when the present safety guidelines will of course be observed, including the use of face coverings.

We continue to pray for our Heavenly Father's loving protective power, and rely on everyone's good sense and unselfish actions to protect and safeguard others and the dedicated members of our precious NHS in these uncertain times.

ST EUNY NEWS

It was with the deepest sadness that we learned of the death of one of our much-loved congregation members, Neil Craze, who had been unwell throughout this Coronavirus time and nursed by his family. Neil was a down-to-earth character and you always knew where you stood with him - a real quality. Neil had been learning to play the organ for several years, under the tutelage of the well renowned organist, Christopher Godolphin, and they met weekly in St Euny to 'tinkle the ivories'.

A Requiem Mass was held for Neil in St Euny Church on Friday, 9 October, which had been organised by Neil himself and his wishes carried out by his family and Fr Peter Fellows, who took the service. We send our sincerest love and condolences to Kathy and family. May he Rest in Peace and Rise in Glory.

Open Cafe has been running for the past couple of weeks and we are trying to establish the need in the community. The ukulele players decided that the social distancing aspect didn't suit their requirements and will, therefore, continue to meet in the home of one of their players. This is sad, but inevitable as Covid has changed so much in people's way of living and doing and how they interact with others. However, there is always a warm welcome for all for just a chat, cuppa and a piece of cake or bring along your own craft work. Wednesday 2-4pm. Due to the inclement weather on 5 October, our monthly Gardening Club was cancelled, however, our 'Gardening Angel' Paul has continued and with the help of his friend, Dan, made a great impact in the churchyard around the church. A keen amateur archaeologist, Paul has been cleaning up some of the graves covered with ivy, moss and weeds, being careful not to touch any gravestones with clean air lichen. Below is an example of his careful and painstaking work.

The church was beautifully decorated for Harvest Festival with stations positioned around the church illustrating objects such as 'Harvest of the Sea', 'Harvest of the Earth' etc.

Non-perishable and tinned items were brought into church for CPR Foodbank which were blessed by Revd Deb and we give thanks to those who were generous enough to provide these much-needed food items. We are particularly grateful to Deb and Geoff, Lucie, Sue, Rosemary, Margaret and Judith for their hard work and input in getting the church ready for our Harvest Festival.

ST STEPHEN'S TRELEIGH

All at Treleigh are saddened to hear of the passing of Neil Craze who came occasionally to Treleigh and served at the Altar when needed. Our thoughts and prayers are with Kathy and her family.

Treleigh Harvest on Sunday 4th October was taken by Rev. Graham Adamson and readings were by Anne Youlton. Donations of food, money and cheques were given to FoodBank.

At the recent ACPM Anne Youlton retired as Churchwarden. Her first session as Churchwarden was from 2009-2010, and following this 2013-2020. The new Churchwarden will be Mary Harris. Trish Knights took over as PCC Secretary from Anne Youlton in 2019. Anne has been secretary from 1989-2013 and 2016-2019. Zoë Simmons has retired from the PCC after more than 30 years, and has been doing the Church flowers for 45 years. Both Anne and Zoë have been presented with flowers and cards in recognition of their contribution and hard work on the PCC over the years. Robin Knights has taken on the Safeguarding role as well as Health and Safety Officer.

We shall be very sorry to lose Rev. Graham Adamson as our Pastoral leader when he leaves us for Camborne where he will continue his last year of Curacy as he takes up the post of Transforming Mission Minister. He has been so very helpful in so many ways, a real hands on leader as well as an inspirational and prayerful person. We, at Treleigh, wish him and his family every happiness in their new surroundings.

Regarding future services we will continue to hold a weekly Said Communion on Thursdays at 1.30pm and on the 1st and 3rd Sunday of the month at 10.30am until the end of December. The weekly Zoom service of Holy Communion on Sunday at 10.30am will continue.

Appreciation from all of us goes to the Benefice Team for the amazing way that they have ably kept us going pastorally in these unprecedented times.

Remembrance Day at Treleigh will be on Wednesday 11th of November and will take place at 10.50am incorporating the 2 minutes silence and poppy wreath presentation. There will be no service on the Thursday afternoon that week.

My sincere thanks to all at Treleigh for the lovely plant and card on the occasion of my 'big' Birthday and thanks too for all the messages, cards and phone calls. Much appreciated.

Take care and Stay safe everyone

From St Euny Bell Tower

Tower ringing members were saddened to hear of the passing of Neil Craze.

He was obviously always up for a challenge, to try something new, and in recent times he had regularly come along to our practice evenings on Wednesdays.

The Tenor Bell was tolled 80 times as he entered the church, and was rung again as he left.

We send our thoughts and best wishes to Kathy and all her family.

'Snow Falling on Cedars' by David Guterson

San Pedro Island, north of Puget Sound, is a place so isolated that no one who lives there can afford to make enemies. But in 1954 a local fisherman is found suspiciously drowned, and a Japanese American named Kabuo Miyamoto is charged with his murder. In the course of the ensuing trial, it becomes clear that what is at stake is more than a man's guilt. For on San Pedro, memories of a charmed love affair between a white boy and the Japanese girl who grew up to become Kabuo's wife; memories of land desired, paid for, and lost. Above all, San Pedro is haunted by the memory of what happened to its Japanese residents during World War II, when an entire community was sent into exile while its neighbours watched.

THE LORD'S PRAYER – AN INTRODUCTION

I wrote a series of articles on the subject of the Lord's Prayer over ten years ago. At a time of considerable uncertainty, I felt that we should revisit the Lord's Prayer. I hope that it will inform, interest, inspire and encourage without being too academic. These next few paragraphs are by way of an introduction. Subsequently I will write in more detail about each phrase of the prayer.

Firstly, in our imaginations, we should visit Galilee. We meet Jesus with his disciples sharing in the prayer taught by him. We are confronted with a prayer which is unique – something new, previously unheard of – in which Jesus breaks new ground. It contains new thoughts which make it a distinctive Christian prayer. It is recorded by Matthew and Luke in their Gospels in a slightly different form which suggests that Jesus taught it to his disciples on more than one occasion. As we pray it together at the Eucharist each Sunday so might the first disciples have prayed this prayer together in Galilee.

Secondly the Lord's Prayer is specifically and definitely stated to be the disciples' prayer. It is only on the lips of a disciple of Jesus Christ that it has its full meaning. There is a presumption that the person who uses the prayer is committed to Jesus Christ in faith and love. According to St. Luke, Jesus taught this prayer at the request of one of his disciples: "Lord teach us to pray" (Luke: 11v.1). A request by one of his disciples to learn to pray as Jesus prayed. It is the prayer from Jesus to us at the request of one of his disciples, hence the need to examine it in detail.

There are six petitions in the Lord's Prayer. The first three are about God – his glory, his kingdom, and his will. The focus of the prayer is about us and God, giving him the supreme place, his proper place in the life of the one who uses the prayer. When we have done that, we can pray the second three petitions, which are about our needs and necessities. These second three cover the three essential needs of each one of us and the three spheres of time in which we live. The maintenance of life in the presence, the request for forgiveness is about the past, and the last one relates to our future life. The whole of life brought to God.

The liturgical ending "For thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory for ever and ever – Amen" is frequently written in the margin of modern translations over the New Testament. I will deal with the reason why in the future – sufficient to say that it probably does not belong to the original Lord's Prayer – this does not mean we should not use it, as it expresses our response of faith as we finish the Lord's Prayer.

THE END OF SUMMER

by Rosemary Nicholls

The end of summer with days getting shorter
Days of raining with a chill in the air
Time soon to light the fire
Leaves falling and trees getting bare.

Soon winter draws on
Rain, frost, gales and snow
Time to put the heating on
With less grass to mow.

Spending more time indoors
Reading and watching TV
Talking on the telephone
Unable so many people to see

But the sooner winter comes
The sooner it goes
Then we'll be looking forward to spring
And it is the end of all our woes.

Getting out and about again
Making the most of our coast and countryside
Picnicking in the park
And going for a long bike ride.

So do not despair
What goes round comes round
Just be patient and keep positive
You will then enjoy life I'll be bound

<<Talkabout>> Lockdown Art—© by Trish Rowe

I have been busy playing with my acrylic paints over the recent lockdown. Acrylic paint has a creamy consistency and is an absolute joy to use plus it's added attraction being that if you make a mistake you can correct it easily unlike watercolours which is an entirely different ball game altogether!

Something I want to get to grips with is painting with a palette knife but no luck so far. I have tried but the results were only fit for the bin! Of course every painting doesn't have to be perfect just fun to do, but my efforts with the knife left so much to be desired that I was pleased to see the back of it!

I have thought that a quick way to a masterpiece is to do an abstract painting, but painting an abstract, I find, is not just sloshing paint all over the place. although it could be! Abstracts have a certain spontaneity about them but a certain amount of time must go into the planning, structure and colour coordination to get a stunning result. Then when it's done I could decide what it looks like before I give it a title!

The obvious subject for the lockdown artist is to paint and sketch in the garden, but as our garden is mainly grass it's a non starter! We do have a lovely view of Carn Brea so that could be my next painting. I have just completed a painting of St. Michael's Mount, which is now hanging on our daughter's wall and plan to do another one incorporating the causeway.

I once read about two ladies who put in a regular order for an art magazine and once a week met up for an afternoon of painting. To select a subject for their afternoon's activity they chose a magazine from the pile on the coffee table, opened it at random and whatever was on that page was their subject for that session! Quite an idea, but I haven't tried it yet!

I love the atmosphere of paints, canvases, pencils, sketchbooks etc and can't resist art books so I spend a lot of time dipping into my library of art books. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder they say, and that goes for art too. I have seen paintings in a gallery window that made no sense close up but step across the road (carefully!!) and suddenly it all becomes clear.

So all in all playing with paints is a most absorbing and fascinating hobby. I love it!!
