Welcome to the annual St Andrew's Arts Festival Week!

After an enforced break of two years we are back with a programme full of wonderful events and activities that celebrate the creative arts in all their forms. From exhibitions, walks and talks to workshops, quiet reflection and interactive displays there is something for everyone to enjoy.

This year our theme -“A Sense-ational Time” - offers an opportunity to explore the world through all of our senses. Local artists, craftspeople and schools have created works in various media to express their individual take on the Festival theme. Exhibitors include photographers Jason Hoole-Jackson and Claire Wilson, glass artists Mel Louis-Smith and Patsy Lawrence, wood turner Dave Doble, textile artist Cat Rowe and members of the “Crafty People” group.

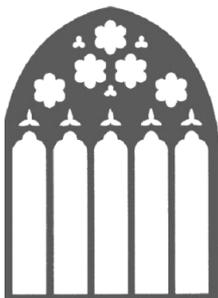

As usual there is a packed programme of events including two guided walks led by local historian Linda Beskeen, dance and art workshops, and our ever popular “Poems, Pasties and Pints” night led by author Tamsin Spargo. Look out too for pop up events and activities occurring throughout the week. You can access these by visiting our website (redruthchurch.org.uk) or by following us on social media.

Finally, do join us across the week for our delicious lunches, refreshments and homemade cakes!

We look forward to welcoming you during the week and hope that you will gain as much enjoyment from our festival as we have had in its planning.

Lez, Linda, Fran, Sandra and Marion ( Arts Festival team)

Unless stated otherwise, events are free. If you would like to make a donation towards the cost of these events there will be an opportunity to do so on the day.

Guided Walks “The Lost Mines” – Tuesday 21st/Thursday 23rd 10:00am – 12:00pm

Led by Linda Beskeen

Walk 1 – The lost mines of South Redruth – looking for clues in names and landscape. A walk from the church towards the south exploring the positions of the ancient Wheal Sparnon, tin streaming in the river, other mines of South Downs and West Carn Marth. Then back to church via “Mount Pleasant”. Approximately 2 miles over 2 hours.

Walk 2 – The lost mines of East Redruth – looking for clues in names and landscape. A walk from church via Pedn-an-Drea to East End and Highway then returning via Cardrew. Approximately 3-4 miles over 2 hours, dependant on the weather.

These events are free but donations towards Festival costs would be appreciated.

“Pick your Brains, Pick a Number, Pick it Up” – Tuesday 21st 1:30pm – 3:30pm

This talk and art workshop led by Ruth Major and the Festival team is designed to engender a sense of caring for the place in which we live. Ruth will tell us how she set up a litter campaign in Manchester after the bombing 5 years ago to make her town a more pleasant place.

The workshop will challenge us to make a piece of artwork using discarded items, litter and reclaimed rubbish. All materials will be provided - including rubber gloves!

This event is free but donations towards Festival costs would be appreciated.

Dance Workshop – Tuesday 21st 7:00pm – 9:00pm

A two hour evening workshop led by Peter Fellows based around our theme of the senses. The evening will include a refreshment break and will finish with a chance for us to share our groupwork with one another. Please wear comfortable clothing. This is a free event but donations towards Festival costs would be appreciated.

“Poems, Pasties and Pints” – Thursday 23rd 7:00pm – 9:00pm

An evening of poetry for all on this year’s theme: The Senses. You’re invited to come along with one or two poems to share in a friendly get-together with a pasty (meat or vegetarian) which is included in your ticket price. If you write we’d love to hear one of your own poems, but most of us choose faavourites old and new. It’s lovely to hear everyone read their choices, but we have readers who will happily step up if you prefer. Please interpret the theme as imaginatively as you like. Stumped for a poem? Come anyway and enjoy the readings. It’s a lovely chance to discover new poetry of all kinds.

Booking is essential for this event. Tickets at £5 are available from lezss@btinternet.com. When booking please state your choice of pasty. Licensed bar available on the night.
